

6. Forum Fundamentals

Hi. I'm Toni. We're heading into the member areas of BEingThere.net, so I wanted to take just a moment in this tour to give you some helpful hints about how to get the most from participating in the forum discussions.

Nearly everyone has some reluctance to join in conversations that existed before they arrived, especially with people whom they have never met. Posting on a forum discussion can feel intimidating. If you go back and read some of the early posts in any discussion, you always find people expressing something along these lines.

Every new member has gone through similar questions and doubts, even those who look like they are very much at home in these discussions. The important thing is that you post anyway. Once you do, all the members will go to great lengths to help you fit in and feel comfortable.

Come back to BEingThere.net daily to check the Insight of the Day, What's New?, the Free Consciousness Lesson and the discussion topics.

Before long, you'll be posting easily. Then you will discover the profound benefits of engaging with a worldwide community of seekers.

One especially interesting discovery has been made since opening this forum: The more you post, the faster you grow. So be sure to get involved. You'll be glad you did.

Remember, seeking does not need to be profound.
It only needs to be sincere.

Now, let's look at the discussion areas and the other resources of BEingThere.net. Click on The Solarium, and we'll continue.
