

9. The Terrace

Between the Free Reading Lounge and the Solarium, in the Lobby picture, you will see some doors that lead outside, onto The Terrace. Come on out, and enjoy the fresh mountain air!

Like always, you can pass your cursor over The Terrace, and you will see the topic of discussion that is taking place there right now. When you become a member of BEingThere.net, you will be able to participate in the discussions that take place in all of these various settings.

Here on The Terrace you will find a thoughtful discussion about how Higher Consciousness and primary relationships go hand-in-hand.

In Chapter 12 of Feeling Your Way Along, you can read how relationships are a specific tool in your pursuit of Higher Consciousness. In this discussion on The Terrace, you will hear how others use their relationships to encounter their emotions, deal with their issues and learn their lessons.

When you understand the perfectly designed dynamics involved in selecting a romantic partner, you begin to see how a primary relationship is conceived to serve your growth.

In learning how to work with your partner, to resolve issues and identify lessons, your relationship becomes the powerful tool for personal growth that it is designed to be. Let this discussion help you to learn how to maximize the potential of all of your relationships.

Relationship skills also apply to your parent-child relationships (you and your children) and to your child-parent relationships (you and your parents). So, when this discussion group exchanges insights and experiences about relationships, all of these important relationships are included.

This is powerful information in your pursuit of Higher Consciousness. Be sure to take advantage of it, even if you are not currently in a romantic or parenting relationship. At the very least, you have relationships with your parents, where consciousness skills are especially relevant, even if they are deceased.

Do not be afraid to challenge tradition or convention here. It is not disrespectful, or a form of dishonor, to question the lessons that come from important relationships. Remember, that if something is true, it will stand up in the light of examination.

Okay. Now let's see what is going on, further outside, in The Gazebo. Go ahead and continue this tour by clicking on Section 10, The Gazebo.
